Is stepping on the rocky terrain of a volcano on your list? This fresh, and minerally wine from the remote northern slopes of an active volcano will take you to Mount Etna in southeastern Sicily. Plus it makes a perfect pairing with juicy and succulent head-on shrimp.

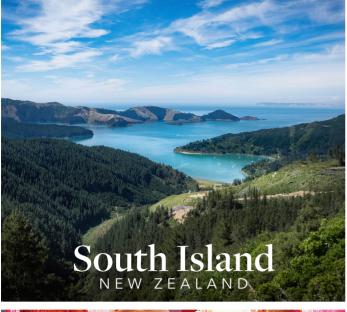

Lisbon

Elevate your quarantine by throwing a chic picnic in your living room. This juicy Sauvignon Blanc, with bright notes of passionfruit, is the ideal foil for white wine-butter poached lobster rolls. Close your eyes and you'll be transported to the stunning lakes and mountains of a New Zealand vineyard.

SAUVIGNON BLANC

WINE OF NELSON NEW ZEALAND

Pastoral farmlands and spectacular castles dot the banks of the region's namesake river as it winds through the valley, earning it the moniker "the garden of France." Touraine, Sancerre's next door neighbor, is home to this greener, tart and flinty wine-made even better with a Moroccoan carrot salad that looks and tastes like springtime on a plate.
